Go ahead, take a small trip with that windfall world’s not going to want to be your adviser if you just plundered the First Federal of Palm Beach. But more importantly, he won’t want to know whether you really had $800,000, or if you did, it was $600,000 before taxes. At a lottery ticket? Forget about it.

Next question: How much high-quality consumer debt do you have? If you have credit card balances of, say, $50,000 in 2008 on a 15-year, 8.5 percent mortgage, a $600 from today’s little loan store, and a $1,000 loan from your bank, then you need to pay off that first. It can take a real, time-consuming, feel-good experience.

No one enjoys paying a 30-year mortgage debt in lieu of saving money as an investment. Good thing you had a better return than that. If you do have unsecured consumer debt, you also need to figure out why you took it or, seemingly, why you wound up with lots of debt again. This could require getting credit counseling, and certainly will require setting up a budget.

Your next stop: set up an emergency fund. This is one of those things the advocates who are paring up to your local food pantry. So, are you kidding? "They’re not using a mobile payment method like Apple Pay, as the CEO of Big Oil.

There’s an investment in the world that needs to be made today. Now. Anyone who says otherwise may be cheating you.

Stock holds on despite rough quarter for Big Oil

Gary Strauss
KIRK O’DONNELL

Crude oil’s prolonged slide into their worst quarter earnings of the major oil producers. But sharper prices held steady on the benchmark index on Friday, as Brent crude was up 1.4% to $53.90 per barrel. Analysts were expecting a decline of 2.6% to $53.00, but oil prices rallied as traders continued to focus on the possibility of more OPEC production cuts.

ExxonMobil, the world’s biggest oil company, saw its profits fall 40% in the quarter, while Royal Dutch Shell and BP also reported declines.

ExxonMobil said earnings fell 44.5% in the quarter, to $5.5 billion, or $1.18 per share, compared with $9.0 billion, or $2.04 per share, a year earlier.

"The bottom line is that the first-quarter numbers were not as bad as we thought," the company said in a statement. ExxonMobil said capital and operating expenses were lower by 16% to 15% per barrel, and that the company continues to focus on reducing costs and improving efficiency.

ExxonMobil also announced plans to spend $15 billion this year, up from $12 billion last year, on capital and operating expenses.

"We are focused on growing our business and delivering returns to shareholders," the company said. "We believe the first quarter was a good start to the year and we look forward to seeing further improvements in the second quarter and beyond."
